

Student Permission Form

A note to students: I want to keep an active backlog of current and recent sample essays written by LCSC students. These already include some of the best papers I received the previous semester but in addition to good essays I also need papers that are so-so and even failing. I plan to share these papers with the students in classes as models for discussion and for their own writing. If I ask you for a copy of your paper to use for these educational purposes, however, please feel totally free to withhold permission. On the other hand, if you do give me permission I thank you in advance. Along with this signed permission form, please give me one hard copy of your essay and please email me an electronic copy of your essay as well (<hepworth@lsc.edu>).

I hereby give Professor Hepworth permission to use part or all of my English 101 essay for education purposes. In doing so I waive my right to privacy granted to me by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA)
